WHO AM I

Rahana is a Los Angeles-based singer, songwriter, bassist and producer who blends silky vocals, soulful bass, and organic rhythms into a sound that's both grounding and transcendent.

Raised in Berkeley, CA, Rahana weaves her roots, her background as a rehab therapist, and her deep intuitive sensitivity into a sonic world rich with texture. Her emotive vocal tone, stacked harmonies, and intentional production style have become hallmarks of the evolving visual and musical universe that frames her artistry.

Her alchemical storytelling reflects her belief in the power of music to release stored emotion in the body and restore the spirit. Often compared to Sade and Amy Winehouse, Rahana creates a sound that is both soft and deep, drawing listeners into a space of emotional honesty.

Since stepping onto the scene, Rahana has quickly made her mark, performing at iconic venues like We Play Studios, NAMM, The Troubadour, Whiskey-a-go-go, Viper Room, and The Improv. She has opened for artists such as Leon Thomas and Andra Day. You can hear her best-selling vocal samples featured in The Grammy Museum.
